

Thespian Playworks 2006

Heathwood graduate Erica Richardson (2006) is pictured in Dramatics magazine as one of the four Thespian Playworks finalists whose original plays were developed at the national Thespian Festival during the summer of 2006.

Erica and Heathwood's drama director, Dr. Melissa Swick, spent a week in June at the Festival, and Erica's work throughout the experience was extremely successful. Her script will be published in a future issue of Dramatics.

A photo of the staged reading of Erica's play Storms is included on the Educational Theatre Association website (www.edta.org) in the coverage of the Saturday events of this year's Festival.

This honor is one of several national recognitions that Erica has received for her playwriting in recent years. She is now at Wellesley College in Massachusetts.
